FAX: (202) 842-4297

Graham Copp
Senior Manager

Madeline Lund
Senior Digital Media Strategist

Marilyn Wiley
Digital Communications Specialist

Geoffrey Knowles
Communications Specialist

The Communications Department is responsible for the national union's communications with APWU members and the public.

The department publishes The American Postal Worker bimonthly magazine and periodic APWU News Bulletins. In addition, the Communications Department maintains the union's Web site, www.apwu.org.

The department also handles media relations; publishes pamphlets and brochures; helps produce APWU videos, assists in the development of COPA solicitations and other membership-wide mailings; and helps to create invitations to non-members to join the APWU.

The Communications Department develops communications strategies for the national union, and in concert with APWU officers, reports on all the activities of the organization.

Media inquiries should be forwarded to the Communications Department. Questions concerning the magazine, bulletins, and the Web site also should be directed to the department (however, questions and information regarding address corrections for the magazine and bulletins should be sent to the Per Capita Department).
