For your grievances, when you don't receive your documents as requested, make a second request.

When you don't receive that second request, put it in your additions and corrections Article 17 and 31.3., that your requested information was not provided.

Also, file a separate grievance and refer to the original case where the information was denied.

In addition, put this language in all those grievances that the withheld information would have proven the Union's case.

"When management denies the Union access to relevant information, full development of the grievance cannot be achieved. Without such full development and without everything being placed before the parties for discussion, there is no real probability for resolving at the lowest step."
